

AUTORZY/AUTHORS

Sławomir Cebula – doctor in science of religions, works at Institute of History at Pontifical University of John Paul II and at Institute for the Study of Religions at Jagiellonian University specializing in the issues of oral history method and influences between law and sociology of religion. His present work focuses on religious minorities research using audiovisual documentation.

Dorota Czakon-Tralski – doctor of humanistic science in Sociology (University of Silesia, Poland), a lecturer at the Pedagogical University of Cracow (Institute of Philosophy and Sociology). Her scientific interests focus on social problems, migration, multiculturalism and conflicts. The author and co-author of: Województwa katowickie i śląskie oraz ich mieszkańcy w procesie zmian. Społeczne koszty transformacji (2003), Konflikty i mediacje we współczesnej rzeczywistości społecznej (ed. with A. Margasiński, 2007), Kim jestem? Kim jesteśmy? Antropologiczne i socjologiczne konteksty współczesnej tożsamości (ed. with M. Boruta, 2010). Contact: dorota.czakon@gmail.com.

Bożena Domagała – born in 1954 in Zalewo/Olsztyn. In 1978 she graduated from Institute of Sociology at Warsaw University. In 1989 she obtained her PhD from the Faculty Philosophy and Sociology at University of Warsaw. She completed habilitation at the Faculty of Social Sciences in 1998 at the Wrocław University. Now she teaches sociology in the Department of Sociology at the University of Warmia and Masuria. She is interested in sociology of nation and minorities group, ethnicity and religion.

Jakub Drath – MA in Religion Studies and Journalism and Social Communication at the Jagiellonian University. Currently a doctoral student and the Institute for the Study of Religions at the Jagiellonian University. His scientific work includes interreligion dialogue, especially Christian-Jewish relations.

Iwona Kłóska – PhD holder in humanities in the discipline of sociology, currently on the position the Rector at Wyższa Szkoła Ekonomiczno-Humanistyczna situated in Bielsko-Biała, Poland. She gathers the experience thanks to the cooperation with numerous organizations connected with the business and business-like environment. Active participant in many research projects aiming at the analysis of the job market development trends. The author and co-author of numerous publications and scientific papers, inter alia: Organizational culture in public institutions. Analysis of the development tendencies on the job market in Bielsko-Biala subregion. Possibilities of science and business co-operation. Experience and expectations in the opinion of entrepreneurs. A man in the organization. Selected aspects of HR management.

Grzegorz Kubiński – (Ph.D. in sociology, Jagiellonian University, 2005) is assistant professor at Institute of Philosophy and Sociology, Pedagogical University of Cracow. His recent scholarly interests focus on sociology of religion, sociology of body and cultural studies. His an author of following monographs: Narodziny podmiotu wirtualnego (2008); Alain Badiou. Ontologia mnogości (2010); Figury i wydarzenia. Agamben, Badiou, Negri (2011).

Grażyna Kubica – lecturer of Social Anthropology in the Institute of Sociology, Jagiellonian University, Krakow. One of her research areas is the history of anthropology, especially the life and work of Bronisław Malinowski. She coedited the volume Malinowski – Between Two Worlds (Cambridge University Press, 1988), as well as the Polish Dzieła (Completed Works) of the anthropologist. She authored the introduction and edition of the full and comprehensive version of Malinowski's diaries in their original language: Dziennik w ścisłym znaczeniu tego wyrazu (2002). The spin-off from this work was a feminist book, Siostry Malinowskiego, czyli kobiety nowoczesne na początku XX wieku (2006), concerning several women appearing in the diaries, among them the Polish-British anthropologist Maria Czaplicka. Kubica has just wrote the biography of her: Maria Czaplicka, płeć, szamanizm, rasa. Biografia antropologiczna (2015).

Mariola Kulon – student of sociology in the Department of Applied Social Sciences of the Silesian University of Technology. She is researching religious minorities in the Balkan countries.

Mariusz Miształ – professor of the Pedagogical University of Cracow; historian and linguist. His main academic interests focus on British history, mainly the Tudor and Victorian periods, as well as history of Cyprus. He has published widely, for example the monograph study The Elizabethan Courtier: Ideal versus Reality embodied in Robert Dudley Earl of Leicester (Kraków 2002), the biography of Queen Victoria (Ossolineum 2010), or the comprehensive history of Cyprus (Kraków 2013), the first such study in the Polish historiography.

Paulina Napierała – is a doctor in political science and an assistant professor at the Institute of American Studies and Polish Diaspora, Jagiellonian University, specializing in the issues of church and state relations in the USA, religion and politics, and religion in American public life. At the moment her work focuses on the social and political role of the Black Churches in the USA. She has published two books concerning religion in American public and political life as well as numerous articles and book chapters, both in Polish and in English.

Grzegorz Pełczyński – Professor of Chair of Ethnology and Cultural Anthropology of Wrocław University. Area of interests: religion, ethnicity, film, literature and folklore. Researches in: Armenia, Lithuania, Poland, Russia and Ukraine. Recently published: Mniejsze mniejszości i inne szkice (2017).

Bogdan Pliszka – sociologist and politologist, assistant professor at the Department of Applied Social Sciences, Silesian University of Technology. He researches Islam and political violence.

Maria Rogińska – PhD, assistant professor in the Department of Sociology of Religion, Institute of Philosophy and Sociology (Pedagogical University of Cracow). She is anthropologist and sociologist of religion, author of publications on the relation of science and religion from a sociological perspective.

Jerzy Sojka – doctor in evangelical theology and a lecturer at the Department of Systematic Theology at the Christian Theological Academy in Warsaw. He specializes in the theology of Lutheran Reformation in the 16th century, as well as its actualisation within the contemporary Lutheranism. His field of research also includes contemporary evangelical ethics, as well as Lutheran theology of the 20th century, with a particular consideration of the work of the Lutheran World Federation. Besides the scientific articles and books dedicated to these fields of research, he actively popularizes the knowledge about the Lutheran Reformation of the 16th century, both in magazines and through lectures.

Piotr Stawiński – dr hab., professor at the Institute of Philosophy and Sociology of the Pedagogical University of Cracow, head of the Chair of Religion Sociology. Religion studies scholar and religion sociologist, author of inter alia: W zborze i na zestaniu. Z dziejów nurtów ewangelicznych w Imperium rosyjskim 2 poł. XIX – pocz. XX w. (1993); Ahmadijja islam zreformowany (1994); Demonizm i czary w życiu społecznym purytanów amerykańskich okresu kolonialnego (1997); Sekty schizmy i herezje w Rosji (Słownik) (2000); Boży eksperyment. Purytanie w siedemnastowiecznej Ameryce (2012). Miscellanea islamica. Islam w badaniach i praktyce kontaktów międzykulturowych (ed. 2016).

Antoni Szwed – professor in philosophy of religion and ontology. Apart from scientific research he is also a lecturer at the Pedagogical University of Cracow. He is specializing in the issues of human existence (Kierkegaard, Jaspers), relations between religion and ethics, evolution of protestant thinking in XVII century England, fideism, deism, natural theology, selected ontological issues (Hegel). At the moment he is dealing with authority, obedience and free choice issues. Apart from many Polish publications (monographies, articles, translations) he also publishes in English.

Bogusław Tondera – PhD student of the Faculty of Law, Administration and International Relations of Andrzej Frycz Modrzewski Krakow University. He conducts research in the field of denominational policy. He is an editor and publisher of publications in the field of religion and a member of the Polish Society for Reformation Studies.

Michał Warchala – Ph.D., sociologist, historian of ideas, translator. His main fields of interest are sociology and philosophy of religion esp. postsecular thought. He teaches at the Pedagogical University of Cracow and is the author, notably, of Autentyczność i nowoczesność. Idea autentyczności od Rousseau do Freuda (2006) as well as many articles published by "Przegląd Polityczny", "Nowa Res Publica" and "Teksty Drugie". Contact: mwarch@interia.pl.